Economic Development in the light of Concepts and Modern Theories: Egypt Model

Zeinab Tawfik El Sayed Ahmed Elewa

Abstract

This paper deals with three axes. The first axis revolves around some ideas and theories related to the development and economic growth of the early thinkers. The second axis revolves around some modern concepts and theories in the development and economic growth and their application in Egypt. While the third axis revolves around boosting the economic development. The study noted that a new understanding with a new perspective on economic development of learners must be generated from the understanding of past decades of development. It also favors the aspirations of individuals to rise out of poverty through equitable employment opportunities, access to health, education and housing services, and thus, meet human needs.
