

Social Networks and Political Awareness: January 25 Revolution as a Case Study

Marina Emad Gamil Habib

Abstract

discusses the Relationship between two variables which are; Social Networks and Political Awareness in Egypt Post January 25 Revolution. According to the Research Problem which is; "How do Social Networks affect Political Awareness in the Egyptian January 25 Revolution?" at first the paper will start with an Introduction about Social Networks; their evolution, their various types, and the role they play in general. Then it will focus on the Status of Political Awareness in Egypt; during Mubarak's Regime, the uprising of January 25 Revolution, and how Egyptians' attitudes changed during the Revolution. The last part; first will discuss how the passive Media made people turn to Social Networks, it provides some Statistics, second how Social Networks raised Political Awareness and helped in People's Mobilization, and finally if there were any other tools helping in the Process of raising Political Awareness.

Future University in Egypt 2013, January